

“We knew that the old way of prosecuting cases was simply not good enough and that accident victims deserved better.”

is a litigation firm that limits its practice to handling severe personal injury and medical malpractice cases. Meticulous preparation coupled with the use of innovative trial techniques has helped the firm successfully obtain numerous multimillion-dollar verdicts and settlements. The firm’s aggressive style is well-balanced with the need to protect their clients’ financial interests.

Daniel Leav and Edward Steinberg, the founding partners, felt there was a need for new thinking and methods in the fast-changing field of personal injury litigation. They saw that insurance companies and corporations were increasingly aggressive in defending wrongdoing and denying legitimate claims. “We knew that the old way of prosecuting cases was simply not good enough and that accident victims deserved better,” says Steinberg. In the years since its founding, Leav & Steinberg, L.L.P. has established itself as one of the leaders in personal injury litigation and as a result, the firm has been retained on many high-profile cases, including the recent construction crane collapse in Manhattan.

The partners, associates and professional staff handle every case with dedication, sensitivity and commitment. “Helping catastrophically injured people back to a life of dignity is the reason I became a trial lawyer,” says Leav. “I am proud of the work this firm does for our clients.”
